

Mt. Sterling Twice Defeats Salt Lick

The Mt. Sterling Baseball team defeated the fast nine from Salt Lick on the local grounds Saturday afternoon by the score of 8 to 2. The same teams played again Sunday, and resulted in another victory for the local boys by the score of 6 to 2. Vnllandingham twirled both games for the home team and pitched nice ball, however, a number of the fans are anxious to see another slab artist work occasionally, and it is hoped Freeman will be given an opportunity to twirl at the next game. In the game Saturday Salt Lick played a ragged game throughout, and had "Big Smoke" received better support there might have been a different tale. In Sunday's game the Salt Lick boys went to pieces in the first inning, allowing Mt. Sterling to score all of its six runs and clinch the game. After this inning the Salt Lick pitcher was invincible and held our boys to two measly hits for the rest of the entire game.

Dempsey Scores Knockout in Fourth

Jack Dempsey, defending his title as heavyweight champion prize fighter of the world, knocked out the champion of Europe, Georges Carpentier, at Jersey City Saturday afternoon in the fourth round.

The Frenchman fought hard in the second and third rounds, but his punches lacked sufficient strength to tell on the husky American and the crowd of 91,000 could easily see that he was doomed to early defeat. Carpentier was the most popular of the two fighters, although the odds were against him by 2 to 1. The exhibition was a clean cut fight and there is no doubt but that the best man won.

History Club Elects Officers for the Year

The Women's History Club held the last meeting for the summer on Friday afternoon at the club rooms, and the following officers were elected for the coming club year: Mrs. John W. Jones, president; Mrs. George R. Snyder, vice president; Miss Jennie Breen, recording secretary; Mrs. John Frazer, corresponding secretary, and Miss Rannie Burroughs, treasurer. After the business session a delightful musical program was given as follows:

Misses Della Mae Clark and Christina Heinrich, piano solos; song by Mrs. Paul Strother, accompanied by Mr. S. M. Whitehead, with violin obligato by Mr. Strother.

William Wade Dies

William Wade, prominent farmer of near Wades Mill, died last night at his home, following a long illness. Mr. Wade was well known and widely related throughout this section, and was a brother of R. W. Wade, of this city. The funeral services will be held from his late residence Wednesday morning, at 10:30 A. M., followed by burial in the North Middletown cemetery.

Teachers' Institute

The Montgomery County Teachers' Institute opened here this morning with 40 teachers in attendance, every teacher in the county being present. The institute is under the direction of President Garland A. Bricker, of Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Eudora Lindsay South, of Frankfort. President Bricker instructs in rural education and agriculture, and Miss South in public school music.

The morning session opened with singing and devotionals. Under the inspiration of Miss South the teachers showed unusual "pep" in the singing of old-timesongs. Special emphasis was placed on community singing and teachers were urged to organize singing events at their schools during the coming year.

President Bricker discussed the necessity of rural and village teachers making close co-operative connections with the home life of the children. He said, "During the first 30 days of the school term you should become acquainted with all the parents of all your pupils, and, in addition, call at as many of the homes as possible. To do your best teaching, you need to know the home environment of each child."

"A rural teacher needs to be everything from a barber to a Sunday school teacher," said he. "All summer Johnnie's hair has been growing. Father has been too busy to keep it trimmed and ditto mother. If it becomes necessary, you should trim it. Be assured when Johnnie gets home that evening Dad will think a good deal more of the new teacher, and Mother will have a warm feeling for the teacher who has taken so much interest in 'our Johnnie' as to trim his hair."

There are thousands of things that every good teacher needs to do in a rural community that are not included within her contract merely to teach school. A teacher who teaches merely the things in the course of study, and fails to carry out the social requirements of her office, will and ought to be a failure. Teachers who fail to put their lives into the business among country people are not wanted," declared President Bricker.

Soldiers on Guard In Elliott County

Under guard of a company of Kentucky national guardsmen, the Elliott county circuit court opened at Sandy Hook yesterday with nearly 500 cases on the docket, consisting largely of charges of liquor violations. Quiet prevailed throughout the day.

The state guardsmen were sent on orders from Governor Edwin P. Morrow issued on Saturday at the request of Circuit Judge Cisco, who stated that jurors were afraid to serve on mountain cases and that witnesses were fleeing the state, and that at least one man had been murdered because of his having given information about a still.

SEVEN CONTESTANTS DIVIDE HONORS OF LEADING POSITION

Several Others Follow Leaders Closely—Interest in Big Race Grows Intense as Contestants Start Down the Home Stretch

Thousands and thousands of votes poured into the campaign department the past few days and many changes in the standings of the various candidates will be noticed in today's count. Several who were way down on the list last week are now up in leading positions.

Seven contestants share the honors of first position today and a number of others follow so closely that it seems to be a neck-and-neck race as they start down the home stretch. The very closeness of the standings of the contestants make it impossible to predict with any accuracy the winners of the big prizes.

Contestants who are making the most of each opportunity to secure votes are taking advantage of the big 200,000 vote offer, which closes on July 14th. See the full page advertisement for further details of this offer.

Until further notice contestants will be allowed to poll a sufficient number of votes to place their standing 40,000 votes in advance of the leader of the preceding issue.

Chautauqua Program Pleasing Crowds

The Redpath Chautauqua opened its annual engagement in this city Saturday afternoon with the Oceanic Concert Company as the attraction, which proved quite popular with the large crowd present. In the evening there was a concert by the same company, after which a most masterful lecture, "America Looking Ahead," was delivered by Montville Flowers. In the course of his remarks he urged that the United States government close its doors to all immigrants, stating that the class which was now coming to our shores were most undesirable and if something was not done to check the tide America would shortly find herself in the same plight as Russia. His lecture was said by many to have been the best ever delivered in this city.

Yesterday morning was Children's Hour and in the afternoon the Chapel Singers were the attraction. In the evening a concert was given by the same musicians, following which a lecture was given by Lewis A. Convis on his "Personal Experiences with the Bolsheviks in Russia." Mr. Convis described conditions in his native country as most horrible, and urged the public to be patient with Russia, as it was the greatest undeveloped country in the world today, a country without lenders where Bolshevism, aided by Germanism, is destroying the very soul of what should be one of the greatest republics on earth.

The program for the remainder of the week is a most interesting one.

Colored Man Drops Dead on Streets

Harrison Rogers, colored, who lives out on the Maysville pike, but who is raising a crop on the Will Clay farm on Stoner in Bourbon county, dropped dead on the streets in this city below Pete Hensley's yesterday afternoon. He came to town in apparently good health and the cause of his sudden death is unknown.

NEW BANK BUILDING

J. R. Hicks will break ground this week in the building of a stone banking house in Frenchburg. A banking business will be organized with a capital stock of $15,000 to $20,000, and all stockholders will be confined to Menefee county.

Frenchburg is preparing to move forward with the coming of Good roads. The Presbyterian College at this place in order to keep pace with its needs, will begin at once the building of a $40,000 brick addition.

WATERWORKS ON THE BIG HILL

J. R. Hicks, together with four other citizens of Frenchburg, have contracted to put waterworks in Frenchburg. The supply as to come from Big Hill, an altitude that overlooks the capital of Menefee county. These five citizens will supply themselves with water and as many others will get from this supply as man contract for it. Menefee county is becoming quite industrious compared to the Menefee of "olden days." She will soon have good roads and gas for fuel and lighting, from the wells of her own fields.

REMOVED

Gilbert Thomas, the Raleigh man, has removed his offices to the Mt. Sterling Garage building, East High street.

G. O. P. Make Another Raid on Postoffices

Another raid is to be made upon the postoffices of the country to make room for Republican office-seekers. The party in power is not satisfied with undoing all that President Wilson did to place the post-offices of Presidential grade beyond the influence of politics and preparing to fill all the larger offices with officials of their own selection, but they are now arranging to add almost 3,000 more offices to the list which they are to fill with party workers.

For a year plans looking to this end have been in preparation, and arrangements are now being made to open up the new list of postoffices as party patronage and to hand out nearly 3,000 good jobs to Republican workers. The distribution has been held back while a pretense of fairness was being made, but everything now points to the speedy opening up of these positions to the persons recommended by the Republican party leaders.

Since July 1, 1920, an aggregate of 2,597 fourth class postoffices have been advanced to classes of Presidential grade, and the old fourth class postmasters have been temporarily retained without filling their places. It is now proposed to let out all these 2,597 fourth class postmasters to make room for those who are considered entitled to party reward.

"Wet" Parade Staged In Old New York

A great many New Yorkers let the world know today that they hear no love for the eighteenth amendment. Several thousand of them raised a terrible thirst, tramping up Fifth avenue in an antiprohibition demonstration and others packed the sidewalks for more than two miles to cheer them.

It was called a wet parade, and it was wet—soaking wet—with perspiration. The afternoon was one of the hottest of the year, a scorching sun shining down through a humid atmosphere that carried scarcely a whiff of breeze.

Mayor Hylan smiled and sweltered in the seat of honor in the reviewing stand at Madison Square. Each group greeted him with complimentary outbursts as they passed by. The native born addressed him blatantly and intimately and every now and then somebody would loudly inquire if his honor didn't long for a schooner of lager on such a hot day!

Marguerite Clark Forms Own Company

"Scrambled Wives," the latest screen production of Marguerite Clark, released by Associated First National Pictures, Inc., and booked for an engagement at the Tubb Theatre Friday, was one of the successes of the recent Broadway season and had a considerable run, both in New York and Chicago.

The play was written by Adelaide Matthews and Martha M. Stanley, and has to do with the laughable trials and tribulations of Miss Mary Luelle Smith, a girl who "just can't make her ideas behave," portrayed by Marguerite Clark. The plot hinges around the desperate efforts of Mary Luelle to keep from an ardent suitor the fact that she has an ex-husband living and the equally desperate efforts of the ex-husband to prevent his wife from learning the identity of the young woman with whom he had once eloped and from whom he had been promptly parted by an annulment of the marriage.

An excellent supporting cast is to be seen with Miss Clark, her leading man being Leon P. Gendron. Other prominent players are Ralph Bonker, Florence Martin, Virginia Lee, Alice Mann, Frank Badgley and T. A. Braidon.

The production was directed by Edward H. Griffith. The scenes of the picture include a fashionable girls' boarding school, the elopement and a funny episode in the house of a negro minister, an ocean voyage, the streets of New York and the beautiful ballroom and the swimming pool of a country home.

July Fourth Quietly Observed in City

Yesterday, the Glorious Fourth, was quietly observed in this city. The banks, postoffice and other public buildings remained closed all day, while a majority of the business houses were closed in the afternoon. There was no amusements with the exception of the Chautauqua in the afternoon and evening. The day was one of the hottest and quietest Fourth of Julys on record in this city.

INSTITUTE NEWS

Farm and Home News From Over Kentucky

Four Lee county farmers co-operating with County Agent T. H. Jones and the Extension Division of the College of Agriculture will conduct demonstrations with grasses and cover crops during the summer, according to a report of County Agent Jones. Those who will co-operate are T. T. Brandenburg, Clayton Congleton, Zach McGuire and James Maloney.

Farmers of Fulton Co., co-operating with County Agent O. L. Cunningham and Assistant County Agent J. P. Ricketts have started a better sires-better stock campaign. They are also making plans to organize a livestock shipping association.

D. K. Stinson, a Henderson county farmer, who is co-operating with County Agent D. W. Martin, will conduct a wheat variety demonstration this fall, according to a report of Mr. Martin. He will plant 60 bushels of Ashland wheat, the new pedigreed strain, developed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station. Two other farmers in the same county will conduct similar demonstrations.

Graves county farmers have used more fertilizers and land builders, such as cowpeas, soybeans and red and sweet clover this year than in any previous one, according to a report of Assistant County Agent W. A. Humphries.

Cash prizes and pigs amounting to $300 will be awarded to Fayette county pig club winners at the Blue Grass Fair this fall, according to a report of County Agent W. R. Gabbert.

Mrs. Dora Campbell, Henderson county, is planning to co-operate with County Agent D. W. Martin, in conducting a lime and phosphate demonstration with sweet clover on her farm during the coming fall. The farm includes 600 acres, which have been depleted of their fertility and as a result the demonstration is expected to show some important points in connection with soil building.

Culling Rids Flock of Birds That Loaf

That the average poultry flock on Kentucky farms contains a number of loafer hens which may be distinguished from the laying hens during July and August and profitably removed from the flock is shown by results obtained with a flock of 28 Rhode Island Red hens owned by Henry Haag, Jeffersonton, Jefferson county. Mr. Haag's flock was culled by specialists from the poultry department of the College of Agriculture last fall and 13 hens removed because they showed the typical indications of the loafing hen. During the week before the flock was culled the 28 hens had laid 34 eggs. Mr. Haag kept records on the 13 culls and the 15 remaining hens for one week after the culling had been done and found that the 15 hens laid 40 eggs, while the culls produced no eggs. The loafers were sold at the end of that time.

Poultry specialists from the College state that these results are typical of those which may be found on many Kentucky farms during July and August when approximately one-third of the hens molt and stop laying until the following spring.

Plans for a series of poultry culling demonstrations which are to be held in approximately 100 Kentucky counties and which are designed to show farmers how to tell the loafer from the heavy laying hen are rapidly being completed, according to J. H. Martin, in charge of the college poultry farm. These demonstrations will be held in co-operation with county farm agents who will arrange meetings to cover two days in their individual counties. During this time specialists from the college will meet with the farmers and by using the flock on the farm where the meeting is being held will point out to the poultrymen and their wives the outstanding differences between the culls and the layers. In this way it is hoped that farmers will be able to return to their farms and eliminate the loafers from their own flocks.

NO CANDY FROM STRANGERS

50 to 1
Timbuctu
A Hair Brush
Akin to Letters
Won't-Tell-Its-Name

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

MOTHERS are wise by instinct. The mother who has never even seen the outside of a school house knows enough to warn her child against taking candy from a stranger.

Why?
Because a stranger's candy is a doubtful quantity. It may be all right. Fifty to one it isn't. Fifty to one it is a ruse. Ten to one it is unsafe to eat.

Acquaintance means all the difference in the world—with candy, with people, with brands.

Acquaintance gives us knowledge, surety, confidence. Without that sustaining triune, there can be no satisfactory exchange.

ADVERTISED goods are like candy from a friend. We know their source. We know their pledges. We know their proof. We know, furthermore—even the most naive among us—that people do not air information about themselves, their products, unless it is creditable. If they are ashamed to speak out, they cover the facts with impenetrable silence.

Advertising has made it possible for men and women all over the world to buy on faith. Alaska, Timbuctu, Teheran. It is all the same. If you know the goods, know the label, know the guarantee behind the claim, it matters not whether the merchant selling them has long hair or an unpronounceable name. You buy and you are satisfied.

The advertisements in the daily papers are the finger prints of opportunity. They enable you to trace advantage to its source, to go after and get products whose price and worth mean gain to you. They put you in touch with certain benefits.

ADVERTISING has become an essential means of introducing people to reliable products. The printed advertisement is akin to letters in court. Its assertions hold. Some one is responsible for them. And therein lies your protection. You are not dealing with mystery. You are having daylight negotiations with a visible entity.

Advertised goods are their own salesmen. You have only to think of something you care to buy to prove it.

Say you want a hair brush. You have read about one in your newspaper or a magazine. You get the one you know about. And you follow this same course with all articles you purchase.

The hide-and-seek, won't-tell-its-name order of merchandise has no appeal for you. You mistrust it. To you it is like the stranger's candy, something to be declined—left alone.

Merchants who advertise persistently create a neighborly feeling in their readers—a feeling which soon develops a voice of recommendation.

NO ONE in the world is either awkward or hesitating when conviction is propelling their speech. And no surer proof of the strength of advertising to influence sales favorably can be found than in the everyday (unsolicited) word-of-mouth praise buyers mete out to advertised goods they are using.

Advertising is like sunlight. It shows us the way. It leads us direct to purchasing paths which have been cleared of undesirable debris.

If we want to know what, if we want to know where, if we want to know how, if we want to know why—Advertisements will give us the answer in testable facts. They are the pilots of intelligence.

ADVERTISING MEANS BUSINESS

A man will part with his last nickel if he receives value in return. He will spend his last penny if by so doing his investment will repay itself.

The man who thinks business is bad should pause to consider if business is bad, or if it isn't that he is using bad methods or no method in seeking it.

The tendency is to follow beaten paths of antiquated selling methods and await the appearance of business. There are too many live hunters seeking the same quarry to ever permit it straying back along the old path.

He who seeks will find. To intelligently seek business with all the means at the disposal of the modern business getter, success is assured.

There is business to be had—plenty of it. People are buying every day. Fighting for business will win it. By calling into play the resources of printing any legitimate business can attain results.

Any sales manager will grasp at the first plan that presents selling possibilities.

Everyone is trying to sell. The printer can sell, helping his customers to sell. We can all sell if we fight hard enough, and one of the best weapons of the man who sells is printed advertising material. It saves the salesman's time in presenting the merits of his proposition. It reduces selling costs and paves the way to greater sales.

NO REST — NO PEACE

There's no peace and little rest for the one who suffers from a bad back and distressing urinary disorders. Mt. Sterling people recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor. Be guided by their experience.

Mrs. R. W. Green, Queen street, Mt. Sterling, says: "I wasn't feeling well at all for quite a time before I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached and it broke my rest at night as the misery was still there. I was subject to dizzy spells and specks would come before my eyes and there were puffy sacs underneath my eyes and I had pains in the back of my head. My kidneys didn't act regularly and showed they were at fault. I read about Doan's Kidney Pills being good for kidney disorder and sent to Duerson's Drug Store and got three boxes. After using them I was better and have felt fine ever since. I willingly recommend Doan's.

Everything for QUALITY —nothing for show

THAT'S OUR IDEA in making
CAMELS—the Quality Cigarette.

Why, just buy Camels and look at the package! It's the best packing science has devised to keep cigarettes fresh and full flavored for your taste. Heavy paper outside—secure foil wrapping inside and the revenue stamp over the end to seal the package and keep it air-tight.

And note this! There's nothing flashy about the Camel package. No extra wrappings that do not improve the smoke. Not a cent of needless expense that must come out of the quality of the tobacco.

Camels wonderful and exclusive Quality wins on merit alone.

Because, men smoke Camels who want the taste and fragrance of the finest tobaccos, expertly blended. Men smoke Camels for Camels smooth, refreshing mildness and their freedom from cigarette aftertaste.

Camels are made for men who think for themselves.

Just Nine days Left to Take Advantage of Big 200,000 Vote Offer

Second Period Vote Offer Closes
6 P. M., Thursday, July 14th

Contestants Should Do Their Best to Gather in a Harvest of Votes Before the End of the Big 200,000 Vote Offer.

Because of the magnitude of the big 200,000 vote offer the next nine days will in all probability decide "who's who" in The Advocate's big prize race.

It behooves those candidates who wish to see their names high up on the list of winners at the grand finale to take advantage of the golden opportunity to secure extra votes during this period.

Only nine days remain in which to take advantage of the big 200,000 vote offer and it will be those candidates who take full advantage of this wonderful opportunity to secure extra votes who will have the best chance of winning at the end.

200,000 Extra Votes, in addition to the usual number of votes on subscriptions will be given free on each and every "Club of $15" worth of "NEW" subscriptions turned in for or by a candidate before Thursday, July 14th at 6 P. M.

Each contestant may secure as many "Clubs" as possible and on each club 200,000 Extra Votes will be given free. Send in subscriptions as fast as you receive them, so we can get the paper started to the subscriber—it is not necessary to wait until you get a complete club before turning in your subscriptions.

Several candidates have asked us if there will be larger vote offers announced during the last few days of the campaign. To these questions the answer is "NO."

No better vote offers will be made at any future time during the campaign and those who hold back subscriptions with the expectations of getting a larger vote offer will be sadly disappointed.

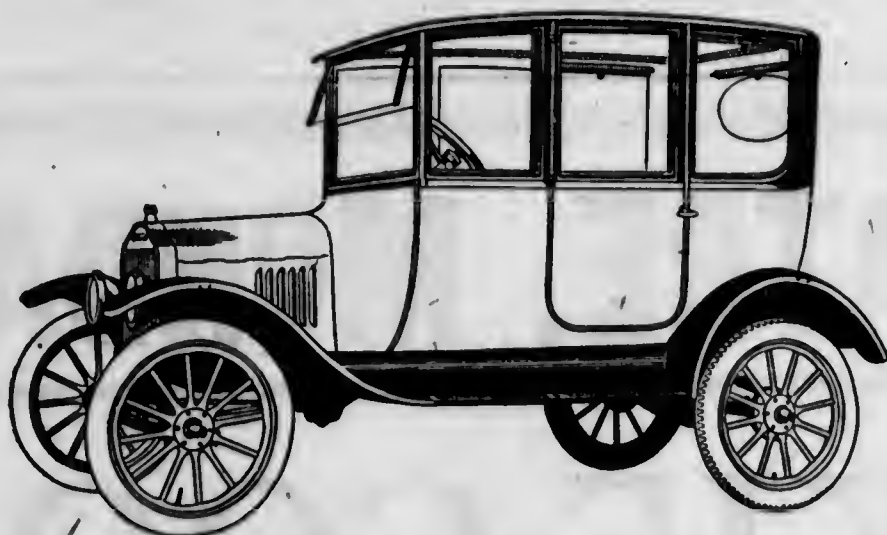

Candidates who send in every subscription they can possibly get—new and old—before July 14th, will secure the most votes on their subscriptions.

Were the Last Day of the Campaign.

6 P. M., Thursday, July 14th, marks the close of the second period in the Advocate's big prize campaign and practically every candidate on the list is striving hard to secure as many subscriptions as possible before July 14th.

Friends of candidates are also taking a big interest in the different candidates just now for they realize that their favorites must do good work during this period if they expect to hold a leading position in this big race.

In addition to the big 200,000 vote offer announced elsewhere in this issue, there is another mammoth vote offer which is of vital importance to every candidate on the list. This is the Prize Ballot offer for this offer, you have a chance to get a million extra votes free. Or if you fail to win the million votes, you may win 950,000 extra votes. And if you fail to win a least one of the twenty prize ballots, you might just as well kiss the automobile good bye, for you won't have a chance on it. Read the offer below.

Twenty Prize Ballots—the first for 1,000,000 extra votes, the second for 950,000 extra votes and so on down, will be awarded to the twenty candidates who do the best work during this period closing July 14th.

New subscriptions, back subscriptions and renewals all count toward this vote offer. And your new subscriptions also count toward the 200,000 vote offer.

Get busy and win the million vote ballot.

HOW MANY JUST LIKE THIS?

There are many incidents that turn an Eventemper into a whirlwind. This is an example:
Mr. Eventemper received a hot note that made him furious, but here is what he wrote: "Sir—My stenographer being a lady, cannot transcribe what I think of you. I, being a gentleman, cannot think it. But you, being neither, will understand what I mean."
There are other incidents that do not get into notes, some as bad as this sample and some worse, and that bring just as tart and deserving answers. Turn the light on to your own conduct and it may be there is something there for correction! Hot notes and meanness written or unwritten, receive punishment in one way or another. They don't pay.

DIDN'T THAT JAR YOU ! !

It became necessary, in order to remove unpleasantness, for the manager of the Chautauqua to request all patrons to desist from smoking in or near the tent. During the "Good Old Days" this reproof would not have been necessary, for in those times our mothers correctly taught us it was not good taste to smoke in the presence of ladies. We would with joy hail the return of those "Good Old Days!"

Laurel Co. Farmers

To Improve Dairying

Definite steps toward improving dairying conditions in Laurel county were taken by farmers of that section of the state when 65 of them recently completed the organization of the Laurel County Purebred Fowl Association, according to E. M. Prewitt, dairy extension specialist from the College of Agriculture. The charter members of the association are owners of more than 160 grade Jersey cows and are planning to improve their herds by using registered Jersey sires. The association will purchase three registered Jersey sires, which will be available for the use of all members. The work of buying the animals was placed in the hands of a committee of which R. C. McKay is chairman. H. M. Pfeister was selected president of the association.

Alfalfa Seeding Plans Should be Made in July

July is the month in which to buy limestone and prepare for the fall seeding of alfalfa, according to E. J. Kinney, of the Soils and Crops Department of the College of Agriculture. The secret of getting a thick stand is to have the soil limed and everything in readiness to sow when conditions are most favorable in August. Waiting too long to plow or failure to have the limestone ready makes it impossible to get the crop sown at the same favorable time.

"Farmers should not neglect placing their limestone orders at once, for sometimes the supply is short or prompt shipment cannot be made so that the work of spreading is delayed. Farmers who are not ready to spread the material when it arrives can place it in a large pile until ready for it. One objection to this is that a heavy rain will wet the outside of the pile and make it difficult to spread, but this can be prevented by covering the pile with a tarpaulin or by giving it a covering of grass or hay. The best way to handle lime is to spread it as fast as it is hauled, but this of course, cannot always be done."

815 Fertilizer Brands Registered in Kentucky

One of the important services performed by the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station during the past year for farmers of the State was the analysis and inspection of fertilizers, according to the thirty-third annual report of the station, which shows that there were 815 different brands registered in the state. These were classified as complete fertilizers, 402; acid phosphates, 113; nitrogenous superphosphates, 164; phosphates with potash, 81; bones, tankage, etc., 53; sulphate of ammonia, one and nitrate of soda, one.

The laboratory work of the fertilizer control department of the station included the analysis of the most of the brands registered in addition to the analysis of 579 samples which were collected by inspectors from the station or sent in by the farmers.

During the year ending June 30, 1921, the station signed 4,432,000 blank tags and stamps to be attached to the bags of fertilizers registered as follows:

Sixty-seven pound size, 9,600;
100 pound size, 196,800.

Wrapped Ice Reduces Ice Chest Efficiency

Wrapping ice in newspapers to retard melting is the result of a mistaken idea and prevents a free circulation of cool air through the refrigerator chambers, according to home economics specialists from the College of Agriculture. This suggestion is included among a number given by the specialists to housewives on the care of the refrigerator during the summer. This piece of household equipment is often neglected, they say, with the result that ice is wasted and unpleasant odors and disease germs permitted to contaminate the food.

"A thorough study of the construction of the refrigerator and the circulation of air through it until all the details concerning it are well known is the first requisite in proper management of the ice chest.

"The first step in keeping the refrigerator clean and sanitary is to use clean ice if it can be obtained. The next is to clean up at once any food spilled on the walls or shelves of the refrigerator. Washing the refrigerator each week with cold water and soda and wiping it dry after cleaning are necessities.

"The drain pipe also needs particular attention and should be removed twice each week, cleaned with hot soap suds and scalded. It should not be replaced until cool.

"Have the iceman leave one or two large pieces of ice rather than several small ones as the larger pieces last longer.

"Keep the ice box well filled. Cooling off a warm refrigerator wastes a large amount of ice. Keep clean, stoppered bottles of drinking water on ice rather than use ice to cool the water.

"Know before you open the door of the refrigerator just what you wish to remove, take it out quickly and close the door."

Jackie Coogan in New Play Monday

"Peek's Bad Boy," starring Jackie Coogan, the six-year-old screen actor, will be at the Tabb Monday.

It is the first picture that Jackie has done since Charlie Chaplin discovered him and produced "The Kid." His work in that feature appealed to Irving Lesser as especially fitting him for the title role of "Peek's Bad Boy," and, after making arrangements with Warner Bros., the continuity was prepared especially for Jackie and the picture produced.

Critics in New York, where "Peek's Bad Boy" was recently given its initial presentation, have described the production as an epitome of boyhood days. The picture is released by Associated First National.

In producing "Peek's Bad Boy" Mr. Lesser took every step possible to enhance the quality of the film. The supporting cast given Jackie Coogan is exceptionally strong, and the direction and settings have been very highly commended. After the actual filming was completed Mr. Lesser procured the services of Irvin S. Cobb, the well known humorist, to write the subtitles, and the complete result has been accepted by the New York newspaper critics as one of the best comedies that has ever reached the screen in years.

Among those who will be seen in the cast with Jackie are Doris May, Wheeler Oakman, James Corrigan, Lillian Leighton, Raymond Hutton, Charles Hutton and Baby Gloria Wood.

Fall Growth of Sweet Clover Makes Best Hay

Hay from sweet clover is best obtained from the fall growth of spring sown seed provided the land on which it was grown is fertile, according to Ralph Kenney, crops extension specialist from the College of Agriculture. The second year's crop may be grazed off entirely or grazed until late May and allowed to grow up for seed. Another way of handling the second year's crop is to mow it with a high stubble when it is about 18 inches high and let the material rot. The second growth, following this practice, will make an excellent seed crop that is not too tall to bind and one which will make an much seed as can be harvested successfully from a crop that was not grazed or cut to hold it back.

"There are two seasons of the year during which under favorable conditions sweet clover may be cut for hay. The first is the autumn of the year the seed was sown and the second is the following spring. This latter period is the one in which perhaps most sweet clover in Kentucky is cut for hay. The crop is harvested when from 24 to 30 inches high and before three blooms appear. There are many farmers who are successful and well pleased with this method of handling the crop. However, the coarse quality of such hay, the difficulty in curing the thick, fleshy stems and the loss of leaves in the handling is so great that many farmers object to it and say it is not worth the trouble. This keeps many from growing the crop.

"It is a mistake to think that because sweet clover is a legume and looks something like alfalfa, it must be cut often and handled the same way. Proper understanding of how best to handle sweet clover creates, and keeps friends of the crop, while misunderstanding simply leads to disappointment. Many farmers have cut hay during the second year's growth and killed their stand. This is a real danger and the sensible thing to do is never to handle it that way."

CANDIDATE FOR JUDGSHIP

It will be of interest to friends here to know that L. D. Greene, formerly of this city, has announced himself, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for County Judge of Jefferson county. Mr. Greene shortly after school, located in Louisville for the practice of law, and his rapid rise to the head of his profession has been the source of much pride to his friends in his old home town.

Glassware Used Is Found Incorrect

During the year ending June 30, 1921, the creamery license section of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station inspected 13,108 pieces of glassware used by various cream stations of the state in testing milk and butterfat brought in by farmers and found 235 pieces of the equipment incorrect, according to thirty-third annual report of the station.

Cholera is Most Serious to Hog Industry

One of the most serious obstacles to the success of the hog industry in Kentucky is hog cholera, according to the veterinary department of the College of Agriculture which has just issued a circular on the prevention and control of the disease in order to help farmers combat it. Hog cholera is more or less prevalent at all times being an infectious and a very highly contagious disease with a high death rate. It spreads rapidly from animal to animal in the herd and from farm to farm in communities. It is caused by a filterable virus, which is present in the discharges of sick animals. Control and preventive measures to be used in fighting the disease are summarized as follows by the circular:

"Any pig showing evidence of ill health should be separated from the remainder of the herd and closely observed for developments of the disease. Depression, loss of appetite and a high temperature are always suggestive of hog cholera. If a hog dies a post mortem should be held and the organs carefully examined for the indications of cholera. It often happens that when cholera infection occurs in a healthy herd, one individual will sicken and die some days before the herd as a whole shows signs of sickness. Therefore it is important to know the cause of death of the first pig that dies.

"Burn or bury deeply all pigs that die, regardless of the cause of their death.

"All pigs purchased and brought to the farm should be kept under close observation in separate quarters for at least three weeks.

"To prevent hog cholera clean the hog house of all litter and dirt, spray with an antiseptic and apply whitewash and paint. Rake up and remove or burn all waste and rubbish in and about the pens and the yards. Use air-slacked lime freely in the yards adjacent to the hog house and from time to time where the pigs are fed."

A number of other preventive measures are given in the circular, which states that the only agent which is a preventive for the disease is anti-hog-cholera serum. The circular outlines the method of vaccination and its uses. The publication is No. 102 and is entitled "The Prevention and Control of Hog Cholera." It may be obtained free by writing the Experiment Station, at Lexington, Ky.

Physiological Action of Tanlac Explained

World's Leading Authorities Show Just What Tanlac Really Is and Explain Effect of Each of Ten Ingredients on the Human System. Power of Medicine Conclusively Proven.

A day never passes but what thousands of people ask the question: What is Tanlac? Why its phenomenal success? Why do we hear so much about it? and Why has this preparation so far out-stripped all other medicines of its kind?

The answer to these questions is easy and can be explained in just one word—merit. Tanlac is scientifically compounded and represents years of work, study, experimentation and research by some of the foremost chemists and pharmacologists of America.

The Tanlac formula is purely ethical and complies with all National and State pure food laws. It is purely vegetable and is made from the most beneficial roots, herbs and barks known to Materia Medica. The Tanlac Laboratores are among the largest and most modernly equipped in this country.

Ten Ingredients in Tanlac
Altogether, there are ten ingredients in Tanlac, each of which is of recognized therapeutic value.

In referring to one of the more important ingredients of Tanlac, the Encyclopedia Britannica says:

"It has been the source of the most valuable tonic medicines that have ever been discovered."

In referring to other of the general tonic drugs contained in Tanlac, the 13th Edition of Potter's Therapeutics, a standard medical text-book, states that "they impart general tone and strength to the entire system, including all organs and tissues."

This same well-known authority in describing the physiological action of still another of the ingredients of Tanlac, which is of value in treating what is commonly known as a "run-down condition," uses the following expression:

"It is highly esteemed in loss of appetite during convalescence from acute diseases."

There are certain other elements in Tanlac which, because of their influence upon the appetite, digestion, assimilation and elimination, improve the nutrition and vital activity of all the tissues and organs of the body and produce that state of general tonic which is called health.

The United States Dispensatory makes the following comment regarding another ingredient:

"It may be used in all cases of pure debility of the digestive organs or where a general tonic impression is required."

There are certain other ingredients described in the Dispensatory, and in other standard medical text-books, as having a beneficial action upon the organs of secretion, whose proper functioning results in a purification of the blood streams passing through them. In this manner, objectionable and poisonous ingredients of the blood are removed and the entire system invigorated and vitalized.

Tonic and Body Builder

Tanlac was designed primarily for the correction of disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. At the same time, however, it is a powerful reconstructive tonic and body builder, for it naturally follows that any medicine that brings about the proper assimilation of the food and the thorough elimination of the waste products must, therefore, have a far-reaching and most beneficial effect upon the entire system.—Adv.

Harding Names Taft as Chief Justice of U. S.

Former President William Howard Taft was nominated last Thursday by President Harding to be chief justice of the United States and his nomination was confirmed by the Senate in executive session.

The nomination was not confirmed without opposition, however, and a roll call was demanded. The opposition was understood to have been voiced by Senators William Borah, of Idaho; Hiram W. Johnson, California; and Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, all Republicans, who were said to have criticized Mr. Taft's record and his nomination.

On the roll call, however, only four votes were cast against confirmation. These were Senators Borah, Johnson and LaFollette, and Senator Thomas E. Watson, Democrat, of Georgia.

The final vote was 60 to 4. An agreement was reached not to make public the roll call.

The Senate's doors were closed for discussion of the nomination, after suggestions that Mr. Taft be confirmed in "open executive" session, because he is a former President, had been rejected by his opponents.

And I Thought to Advertise Thee!

From the earliest of Biblical days the value of advertising has been more and more clearly seen. In one way or another through all the ages men have realized that without publicity or advertising their efforts would be in vain. The "mighty pomp and circumstance of war," the triumphal processions of the old Romans, the varied means adopted to send information throughout all empires in olden days, down to the tremendous displayed advertising campaign of the British government in stirring a nation's patriotism and raising an army of 5,000,000 volunteers and similar advertising work by the American government to sell Liberty Bonds, were all merely a broad and ever growing realization of the power of advertising.

Without advertising England could not have raised its mighty volunteer army; without advertising the United States could not have found 20,000,000 bond buyers. The same power of advertising could now "sell" prosperity to the whole country. There is enough to write about and talk about in advertising to stir the nation to a realization of our country's limitless resources and illimitable development potentialities.

The power of all-prevailing, all-compelling advertising work, literally alive with the fire of truth and enthusiasm, would quicken every heart beat, would thrill every American, would stimulate the young to deeds of achievement in the business world to match the achievements and the glory of the battlefield, and would stir afresh the blood of the old. The flag of America's patriotism unfurled in advertising, rightly done, the bugle call to work, the drum beats, "Charge," would lead us onward to commercial power and glory and to prosperity as worthy of praise as ever won the work of the battlefield.

Then down with the pessimism of the faint hearted camp followers, and up with the flag of optimism!

Onward with "sound the charge," through every well tested and proven advertising method, and we would soon see a mighty army of a nation of 105,000,000 people putting to disastrous rout every faint heart, every preacher of pessimism in bank, in

"I kept getting headaches and having to go to bed," continues Mrs. Williams describing the troubles from which she obtained relief through the use of Cardui. "My husband, having heard of Cardui, proposed getting it for me. 'I saw after taking some Cardui... that I was improving. The result was surprising. I felt like a different person. 'Later I suffered from weakness and weak back, and felt all run-down. I did not rest well at night, I was so nervous and cross. My husband said he would get me some Cardui, which he did. It strengthened me... My doctor said I got along fine. I was in good healthy condition. I cannot say too much for it.' Thousands of women have suffered as Mrs. Williams describes, until they found relief from the use of Cardui. Some say we cannot afford to advertise. The answer is, you cannot afford not to advertise.

Why advertise when there is no business to be had? say others. Because the only way to create business is by advertising.

Why advertise when we have no money to loan? say some bankers; and the answer is, no class ever needed to cultivate the public's favor more than bankers now do. Perhaps you may have no money to loan today, as some say; but you are not a good banker if you fail to sell credit to every customer who has the proper security with which to buy it. A banker borrows money from his depositors and sells credit to his borrowers. It is a merchandise transaction.

It would be a poor merchant who could not find ways to provide goods for his customers, so long as they could pay. He is a poor banker who cannot find credit to sell to his customers so long as they are able to pay the price and assure the final redemption, and bankers need to win public favor just as much as railroads did 25 years ago. Railroads missed their opportunity to cultivate the public and they are now paying the penalty. Bankers, therefore, cannot afford not to advertise. Nor, for that matter, can any other class of business men.

Newspaper publishers intensify their ways and means of advertising whenever business men lessen theirs. When business is dull many industries shut down, but when business is dull live newspapers push out with greater vigor than ever before. They practice what they preach. Let some others follow their preaching and their example and soon once more would be heard "the music of progress, the whir of the spindle, the throb of the locomotive, the roar of the furnace." Pessimism would be buried beneath the bounding spirit of optimism. Credit would be restored to the merchant and the manufacturer. The banker would no longer fear to do business.

The spirit of patriotism for business is as vitally important to the nation's welfare as was the spirit of patriotism for the war four years ago. The slacker then was a coward. The slacker and the pessimist of today are doing the country infinitely more harm than did the slacker of war times.—Manufacturers Record.

Produce Review

A lighter supply coupled with a better demand for butter has resulted in higher markets and better prices for butterfat. Quite a little of the butter reaching the markets this week is selling under top prices on account of defects in quality. Better care in marketing the cream in the country is necessary to remedy these defects.

edy these defects.

The egg supply has been smaller, with higher prices ruling in the producing and consuming centers.

Poultry values are lower, due to increased receipts. Storage stocks are much heavier than a year ago, and there is a tendency toward lower prices, as the supply of fowl and spring chickens increases.

Gladness and gratitude are more pleasant emotions than pride.

Cover Crop is Source of New Life for Soils

New life may be put into worn soils on many Kentucky farms by use of a winter cover crop to furnish organic matter in the form of green manure, according to specialists on soils. In practically all soils raw materials in the form of minerals, crop residues and manures are constantly being broken down into simpler forms by live soil organisms, which are stimulated by organic matter. When soils are poor in this material it must be supplied in the form of manure, crop residues and green manure, according to R. E. Stephenson, field agent in soils from the College of Agriculture.

A winter cover crop affords a green manure for this purpose. It is an especially valuable means of supplying organic matter of which there are two types in the soil: one which decays rapidly and easily and one which is inactive and decays slowly. Green manures are active types of organic matter. The soil organisms multiply rapidly and quickly convert a green manure into a soluble form of food crops. A little of the easily decomposable organic matter of a green manure is worth much more than a larger quantity of old, inactive matter of worn soils.

Nitrogen, one of the principal elements of plant food, is practically all contained in the organic matter in the soil. This element is a limiting factor in crop production. The nitrogen of a green manure is especially valuable because it becomes available gradually as the growing crop needs it.

Trying to make a worn soil productive without organic matter to improve the tilth, to supply nitrogen, and to help make other elements of fertility available, is a hopeless task. A winter cover crop is an efficient and economical means of increasing the organic matter of the soil.

Human Nature and the Storage Battery

The following advice to battery users, regardless of the make of storage battery he is using, is given by Mr. Kimbrough, manager of the local branch of the Electric Storage Battery Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

"In spite of all that has been written regarding the proper care and attention of storage batteries, there is an appalling number of these useful little 'power boxes' ruined every year purely from neglect.

"However, as long as human nature remains as it is, it is going to be a difficult task to persuade automobilists to give their battery the proper amount of attention. They won't give it to their own bodies. Doctors will bear out the statement that everyone should submit to a thorough physical examination periodically in order that, if any serious symptoms are present they may be detected and checked in their incipient stages. Most of us know this, but we neglect going to the doctor until we are acutely conscious of the fact that we need his services.

"How then, can we—negligent beings that we are—be expected to give proper attention to a little inanimate part of our automobiles that seem to give satisfaction (at least to a certain degree), whether we take care of it or not.

"Obviously, the only thing we can do is to keep hammering away at the battery user, bombarding him with facts about his battery until he begins to realize how much he can save by heeding the suggestions offered him.

"Probably no battery was ever installed without attention being called to the fact that it needed distilled water—at least once a week in warm weather and every two weeks in cold weather. And yet, in spite of this, many batteries go for weeks at a time without the slightest bit of water.

It's true, the battery will light your head and tail lights, it will even spin your motor, but it's doing these very things at the expense of your battery's life. For the water, having evaporated from the electrolyte, has left practically nothing but acid, in which the lower parts of your plates are submerged.

"This acid is eating constantly at the active material in your plates, and in comparatively a short time the lower half of your plates is stripped to the grid. No amount of good treatment thereafter can remedy this trouble—nothing but new plates.

"If motorists can only be impressed with the savings that can be effected through the use of a little care, they will find that their batteries will give them far better service than they have learned to expect."
